Monitor 'Fracks' First of 5 Pay in Deep Well

Light-Green Oil
Of High Quality
Found At 7900 Ft.

Monitor Petroleum Corporation's deep well in eastern Elliott County was producing 2 barrels of oil an hour natural before Halliburton fractured the deepest "pay" last Saturday. And workers are still swabbing out. So, results of the first "frack" job are not known yet.

Four other "pays" in the 8,600-foot test well are to be fracked later, and it is estimated this will take about two weeks, and another week to swab out and make tests.

Halliburton, after perforating the casing near the 7,900 foot level, used 1,000 barrels of water, 40,000 pounds of sand and a quantity of acid for the fracturing job, forcing the mixture into the "pay" formation under 4,000 pounds of pressure per square inch. The "frack" job was done Saturday, and swabbing out was started Monday.

"It will take some time yet to complete the swabbing and testing, but we can tell the 'frack' has increased the oil flow some. It looks like we have a pretty good well from the deepest 'pay,'" said Bink Strickland, division manager for Monitor, Wednesday.

Strickland said the deep "pay" fractured Saturday was the one they thought least apt to be a good producer, and Monitor officials originally thought they would not "frack" the strata, but decided later to "frack" all "pays" from the bottom up.

The next "pay" is about 50 feet up, and this will be "fracked" Saturday. Two other pays will be fracked later, the top one being just below the St. Peter at about 4,600 feet where drillers hit a strong flow of gas that took 48 hours to ease off before drilling could continue.

Oil from the deep "pay" is a very high-grade light-green oil of about 45 to 50 gravity—a type not seen in this section of the nation before, Strickland said Saturday. The deep "pay" also is producing about 2½ million feet of gas.

"This well is what Elliott County has been waiting for—and all of Kentucky, for that matter," said Strickland. "We are well pleased right now, and haven't fractured our best pay zones yet," he added.

School Homecoming On Saturday Is Attended By Alumni From Many Parts Of The Nation

C-J Columnist Was
Speaker; Joe Lykins
Is New President

Nearly 200 former students of the Matthew T. Scott Junior Collegiate Institute, the old West Liberty High School, and the Morgan County High School were present at the annual homecoming banquet Saturday night to honor an outstanding alumnus, to elect new alumni association officers, and to hear Courier-Journal columnist Joe Creason speak on "Kentucky Humor".

The banquet was held in the auditorium of the Wells Hill Elementary School and consisted of a country ham dinner and all the trimmings, served by the ladies of the White Oak Christian Church. And after the banquet, homecoming dance took place in the auditorium, ending a homecoming program that included a Coffee given Saturday morning by the Banks Circle in the Christian Church basement, the traditional reception for former students at the home of Mrs. C. K. Stacy in the afternoon, and a new feature—a homecoming golf tournament played on the new Pleasant Valley Country Club golf course.

As in past years, former students came from all parts of the country, some from as far as California. Some arrived early, and spent the week with relatives. All in all, the weekend of activities and visitations was enjoyable, both for former residents and for their hosts at home.

Joe Creason, the Courier-Journal staff writer who has visited all parts of the state to gather folk lore and odd stories, kept alumni laughing most of the time he was describing and illustrating the uniqueness of "Kentucky Humor".

"Kentucky is a contradictory state, Kentuckians are a contradictory people and Kentucky has a style of humor different from all other states that border us," said Creason.

"But humor finds its way into every event in Kentucky life, in politics, in the way we talk and phrase our sentences, in time-honored home remedies, even in the way we name people and places after emotions," said Creason.

"Other states expect Kentuckians to be different—and we are different," he said.

And throughout his talk he illustrated with humor, folk lore, and odd stories from various places in the state, all decidedly entertaining.

Creason was introduced by James R. Perry, president of the alumni association.

Atty. Ralph N. Walter served as master of ceremonies; James Elam spoke the invocation, and Dr. Alec Spencer delivered a short welcome address. Former Gov. and Mrs. Bert Combs were guests at the banquet. They were recognized by Mr. Walter and received a loud ovation.

Mr. Walter also recognized returning graduates from early classes. None was present from the first graduating class of 1911, but Miss Floris Cox was present from the class of 1915.

This year's good citizenship award was presented to Mrs. Melba Pelfrey by Walter Franklin, chairman of the awards committee. (See more detailed story elsewhere).

Elected as new officers of the homecoming association were—Joe Lykins of Malone as president; Billie Black of Frankfort as vice-president, and Mrs. Bernice Allen re-elected secretary-treasurer.

COSTLY ILLNESSES

LONDON (AP) — Arthritis and rheumatism cost British industry $456 million a year in lost production, the Arthritis and Rheumatism Council reported. It said absences resulting from the disease have increased 27 per cent in the past six years with men losing an average of nearly three workdays a year in some parts of the country.

Morganfield was the scene of many skirmishes during the Civil War. During World War II, Camp Breckinridge, a large prisoner-of-war and training camp, was located near there.

"KENTUCKY HUMOR" was the topic of Courier-Journal columnist Joe Creason who was the featured speaker at this year's Morgan County School Homecoming banquet last Saturday. Mr. Kentucky, as Creason is known, appears in a serious mood here, but he kept the homecomers laughing with wit and humor he had gathered across Kentucky in his many travels.

Walter Franklin, right, presented an "outstanding citizen award" to Mrs. Melba Pelfrey at last Saturday's West Liberty School Homecoming Banquet.

The Outstanding Citizenship Award, presented annually by the Morgan County School Homecoming Committee, was awarded this year to Mrs. Melba Pelfrey of West Liberty, a retired teacher. She is shown at right in the above photo after being presented the award at the Homecoming banquet Saturday night by Walter Franklin, chairman of the awards committee. Mr. Franklin recited a long list of services and contributions by Mrs. Pelfrey, including the following—

Twenty-nine years as a teacher in Kentucky, most of the time in Morgan and Johnson counties; also 15 years as a teacher in Dayton, Ohio. Mrs. Pelfrey graduated from Morgan County High in 1931 and attended Morehead State College and the University of Kentucky, receiving her degree from the latter in 1932. Mrs. Pelfrey served as executive secretary of the Red Cross in Morgan County during World War II, served as a 4-H Club leader many years, and is a member of the Morgan County Women's Club, the West Liberty Homemakers, and the Christian Church.

She was the largest contributor to the fund to build the Kennedy Memorial Library in West Liberty ($1,000). Also she contributed $1,000 to the West Liberty Area Hospital fund.

After the death of her first husband, Kenneth Fairchild, she served out his term as Sheriff of Morgan County, and gained the distinction of being one of the few women sheriffs in Kentucky.

Mrs. Pelfrey and her husband, W. O. Pelfrey, both are retired teachers, and live in the former Judge Salyer home on Main Street, which they have beautifully furnished with antiques.

GOEBEL RATLIFF GETS 50-YEAR MASONIC MEMBERSHIP PIN

Goebel Ratliff, right, member of Greenville Masonic Lodge of Coney, was presented a 50-year Masonic membership pin last Thursday at his home at Malone. Mr. Ratliff, widely-known and respected elder in the Primitive Baptist Church and former executive vice president of the Commercial Bank at West Liberty, will be honored for his 50 years as a Mason at Greenville Lodge's annual fish fry Saturday, Sept. 5. Mr. Ratliff, 61, and confined to his home for the past several months, was presented the pin by a committee composed of Walton Jones, shown pinning on the 1-inch button, Astor Barker, Kenneth Barker, Hagar Arnett, Jr., Ernest Allen, and Hayden Ratliff. Dennis Lewis stole home in the fourth inning to score the winning run for these happy lads. Winning pitcher Larry Collins allowed only two hits.

Kind of glum, but the runner-up Licking Valley RECC team, left, played a fine game. Pitchers Mark Jackson and Renny Fraley allowed only four hits in the championship game. The runners-up are coached by Bert Holbrook and Walter Blevins, Jr. Eliminated earlier were Mt. Rural Telephone and the Riverside Road Runners.

OBITUARY CISCO

Mrs. Oney May Cisco, 89, Ardmore, Oklahoma, gently went to sleep in the arms of Jesus on July 1, 1970, at 2:05 p.m. in a hospital in Ardmore.

She was a member of the Baptist Church and in a book found among her personal possessions were the words, "On this date, Oney May Williams met the Lord". The note indicated that she was 18 years of age at the time.

She was a native of Logville, Kentucky and moved to what was then Indian Territory, now Oklahoma, in the early part of 1904, where her husband taught school to the Indians. She had lived at the same address in Ardmore during the entire 66 years that she lived there. She would have been 90 years old in September. She was married to Alonzo F. Cisco at Logville, on January 22, 1902, in the same home where she was born, on Rockhouse Creek. Her husband preceded her in death in May, 1952.

She is survived by two sons, Orville Cisco, Ardmore, Oklahoma, and Aylmer F. Cisco, El Cajon, California; three daughters, Mrs. Beulah Crews, Cypress, Texas (near Houston); Mrs. Estelle Painter, Jennings, Louisiana, and Mrs. Sadie Jane Holloway, Ardmore, Oklahoma; two sisters, Mrs. J. Flem Kennard, Logville, Kentucky, and Mrs. V. E. Williams, Matthew, Kentucky; nine grandchildren, and nine great-grandchildren, also a brother, P. D. Williams of Logville, Kentucky.

She was the daughter of the late David Farmer Williams and Sadie Franklin Williams of Logville, Kentucky.

Funeral services were held in the Bettles Funeral Chapel in Ardmore, Oklahoma with Dr. Edwin W. Parker officiating. Burial was in Rose Hill Cemetery, Ardmore.

DEEP TEST WILL BE DRILLED IN THE KUBE WOODS

Another deep oil well is to be drilled in Morgan County, this one in the Kube Woods section two miles south of Mussel Shoals.

Location has been made on the Ruth Bros. property in the Kube Woods, and a road already has been built to the site. The rig, a large cable tool outfit belonging to Richard Drake of Joliet, Ill., will be brought in next week.

Roland Amyx and associates own the lease, and they have about 2,000 acres under lease in that section.

The well will be operated by the Harper Oil & Gas Company of Illinois, and will be drilled to a depth of at least 5,000 feet, according to Mr. Drake, the drilling contractor.

Site of the deep-test is about seven miles south of the deep-test drilled by Ashland Oil on North Fork at the mouth of Devile Fork two years ago. This well was sunk to a depth of about 6,000 feet. But the well was a "tight hole" and little information has been released on results.

Elder Danl. Williams Fund Now Is $334.00

BY WARDIE CRAFT
To date, contributions total $334.00 for the Daniel Williams monument fund. A big part of this has been donated by people outside this area.

I feel that Morgan County should take the lead in this project. After all, he is buried in our county, is the forefather of 60 percent of the inhabitants of Morgan County, and it was here that he helped to lay the foundation for religion and all that we hold dear.

This is a project that requires the cooperation of every minister of every faith, every civic organization, every school teacher, every school child, and every citizen of the Licking Valley area.

This monument will not only stand for the man (Elder Daniel Williams) but for the ideals for which he stood.

None of us should be satisfied until we have exerted every effort in this worthwhile project.

Since the last published report, $10.00 has been donated in memory of Miles H. Stacy of Cannel City by his family.

FARMERS URGED TO VOTE IN ASC ELECTIONS

Morgan County officials of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service are encouraging all eligible farmers to vote later this summer in ASC committee elections.

"Decisions made by farmer-elected ASC committees can be important to almost all farming operations in the area. That's why we want to be sure every farmer who is eligible to vote in ASC elections is on the list to get a ballot."

Ben Cox, Chairman of the Morgan County ASC Committee, said.

"We urge any farmer who has not previously participated in an ASC election, has changed the location of his farming operation, or who has any other reason to believe that his name may not be listed in ASCS records to contact his County ASCS Office as soon as possible. In this way, he will be assured of receiving a ballot enabling him to vote in the upcoming election."

The ASC Elections this year will be held September 11. Ballots will be mailed to voters about September 1. Farmer voters will elect three community committeemen and two alternates in each ASC community in the county.

The ASC Committee Chairman said that in addition to trying to be sure that every eligible voter will get a ballot, ASCS officials are urging farmers to nominate candidates for community committee posts by petition. "Any sheet of paper listing one candidate and having signatures of at least six eligible voters will serve as a nominating petition. And voters may sign as many petitions as they want," he said.

The nomination-by-petition period for ASC community elections opened July 28 and continues through August 17.

Farmer-elected ASC committees—community and county—are responsible for local administration of farm programs. These responsibilities include setting individual farm acreage allotments and bases, approving applications for conservation cost-share funds, providing information to farm program participants and similar duties.

Assistant coach Ed Zaremba spoke to the boosters club briefly.

Next meeting of the Boosters will be held Monday night, Aug. 17 at 8 p.m. at the Kennedy Library, president Henry L. Allen announced.

Old-Timers Get Together 1st Time Since World War I

Two "old-timers" here for the School Homecoming were Col. Earl Franklin (retired) and Bruce Reed. And it was the first time they had been to West Liberty together since World War I, fifty-one years ago, when each was home on leave from the armed services. Mr. Reed, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Boyd Reed of West Liberty, was born in West Liberty, La. and moved to West Liberty to visit his boyhood friend, Col. Franklin. And on Saturday morning at 7 a.m. they left Richmond and drove to West Liberty for the Homecoming, and to visit relatives and friends. In arriving from Richmond Saturday morning, they reminisced a lot about early days in West Liberty. And they remembered the last time they had been to West Liberty together was in 1919 when they each were home on leave — Col. Franklin from the Army and Mr. Reed from the Navy. Mr. Reed has been away from Morgan since World War I except for one year — 1932 — when he lived here briefly.

BROADWAY CHURCH OF GOD

By Snowden Johnston
Aug. 9—This morning at the First Church of God on Broadway in our Bible lesson we were studying about God's promises. They are good, and they are many.

Something happened that brought to my mind the fact that God gives us so many joys unexpectedly. Our congregation was visited by Brother Ray Lacy and his family from Dayton, Ohio. Their singing and their witnessing for our Saviour brought joy to everyone present.

Then our pastor preached us a message asking the question, "Is your Garment Moth Eaten?" He compared sin to eating and destroying our lives to the little moth destroying our possession of cloth. He brought out several good thoughts.

One that caused a little fear to come to me was that the moth only eats on the things that are stored away and not in use. I wondered if I was failing to use some of the talent God had given me? Did I have it stored away? Am I, by failing to use something God has given me, permitting it to be chewed full of holes by the moth of sin and making it unfit to be used?

As I saw some empty seats, seats where in the past I have looked to the people in these seats and they would give me smiles of encouragement and more times than they know I needed those smiles. From these seats I saw empty today I have many times in the past listened to beautiful voices singing praises to God.

As I looked at these empty seats I remembered how many times in the past I had been made to feel proud that I could call the occupants of these seats brothers and sisters in Christ. How many times I had almost envied them because of the many good and useful things they could do for the glory of God. Are you allowing the moth of sin to eat something that God gave you because you are not properly using it? God gave you your life and all your useful abilities. God will fill his place in every congregation. Where will you be next Sunday?

The Courier published an article in last week's edition concerning the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Davis of Stroth, Indiana, who are natives of Morgan County. Unexplainably, last week's item referred to Mr. and Mrs. Davis as Andrew and Frances Callahan. It should have read Andrew and Frances Callahan Davis. Also last week's item erroneously stated that the Davises resided in "the Blair section" and failed to report that they resided in Stroth, Ind. Our faces are red, but we join Mr. and Mrs. Davis' many friends in extending to them our most sincere congratulations for completing 50 years of happy married life. They celebrated their anniversary with open house at their home in Stroth, Sunday, Aug. 9.

FINALLY, A GOVERNMENT AGENCY ADMITS AUTOS ARE PRINCIPAL POLLUTERS

NASA—the National Aeronautics and Space Administration—is the government agency which finally has admitted that automobiles are the principal polluters of our atmosphere.

NASA said this week the incomplete combustion of fuel in an automobile engine accounts for one-quarter ton to one-half ton of carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons in a year per car.

NASA made the admission in announcing that aerospace knowhow will be used to fight the biggest polluter—the automobile and truck internal combustion engine. NASA said its Lewis Research Center at Cleveland is developing means to attain complete combustion by using a cooker-type thermal reactor on cars.

If each automobile on the road emits from 1 1/2 to 2 tons of poisonous hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide a year, Americans can readily see now the great danger from the millions of cars in use.

A study group of doctors and scientists reported over four years ago that hydrocarbons from auto exhaust was the second most certain cause of chest cancer and respiratory diseases. But the report was quickly hushed up.

And three months later, ten foundations, including the Cancer Society and the Heart Association, announced they were starting an "educational campaign" against cigarettes as the prime cause of chest cancer and respiratory diseases. To the present time the ten foundations have refused to reveal who or what group gave them the $3.1 million to pay for the TV commercials against cigarettes. And Americans have been propagandized for three years with TV commercials against cigarette smoking. The "educational campaign" threatens to ruin the tobacco industry.

But once Americans learn they have been deceived, they may react quickly. Clearly, they should know by now that anyone who stops smoking cigarettes for the puny harm they do, but no one can escape breathing the hydrocarbon fumes from automobile exhaust that sap more and more of the very "breath of life" from our atmosphere.

BUSINESS HERE AND HEREABOUTS

STATE FINANCE COMMISSIONER Albert Christen said sale of $60 million in toll road bonds to an underwriting syndicate at a net interest rate of 7.408 per cent in a negotiated sale was the "feasible" thing to assure the projects placed on schedule. The funds would be used to complete construction of the Audubon Parkway and the Daniel Boone Parkway and along with additional money—to start work on the Owensboro-Bowling Green and Bowling Green-Somerset turnpikes. The Kentucky Turnpike Authority voted unanimously for the negotiated sale.

FINANCE COMMISSIONER ALBERT CHRISTEN last week said the state school lobby is the force behind a movement to raise taxes in 1972. Christen said the Kentucky Education Association has hired 14 public relations specialists to "soften the providers" or the taxpayers in preparation for demand for more. KEA Executive Secretary Marvin Dodson said the new people are not necessarily public relations specialists but "they will work on a lot of things, and legislation will be one of them."

STATE DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE is seeking Franklin Circuit Court order to compel the Harrison County property evaluation administration to raise the assessment level there to contends that 1970 assessments were 85.9 per cent on urban property and 80.15 per cent on rural property.

KNOTT COUNTY FISCAL COURT members said last week they will take no further action on the county strip mining controversy until an opinion on legality of a county ban on surface mining is issued by state Atty. Gen. John Breckenridge. Fiscal Court banned strip mining June 6 after declaring it a public nuisance. State Reclamation Director Elmo Grim issued seven permits for strip mining operations in Knott County last week. He had been delaying issuance of the permits awaiting an opinion from the attorney general's office, but was forced to issue the applications due to a state law which required action on applications within three weeks.

STEPS TO TAKE IN PLANTING GOOD PASTURE

BY H. A. WALLACE

The following steps in pasture planting will help insure you a good supply of feed for livestock—

1. Prepare a good seedbed; Disk, harrow, and cultipack at seeding time.
2. Lime for a PH of 6.0 to 6.5.
3. Fertilize to supply adequate nutrients for the species being seeded.
4. Seed pastures to legumes and grasses which are best suited to the site, which will be productive at the season of the year when pasture feed is most needed.
5. Inoculate all legumes with the correct inoculate.
6. Seeding rates and dates. The seeding mixtures used should contain one perennial grass and one or more legumes. The plants used should be determined by the site and use to be made of the forage.
7. Drill seed on the contour. If a drill isn't available, broadcast the seed and cultipack on the contour.
8. Use good, clean seed. (Weed Free).

The Future Farmers of America was organized nationally in November, 1928, during a meeting of students and leaders at Kansas City, Mo.

SALUTE TO CLAY CITY

Clay City near Stanton in Taylor County, once a rail center in East Kentucky. The Mountain Central Railway joined the Lexington & Eastern Railway at Clay City where there was a "Y" and offices of the Mountain Central, Lexington and Eastern ran from Lexington to Jackson, and Clay City was about the half-way point. The Mountain Central, which had its main office in the old Day General Store building, ran up the Red River valley to bring out timber. Four passenger trains ran through Clay City daily about the turn of the century. And the town had three saloons, four doctors, and electric lights. Nearby were three iron furnaces that had been built between 1870 and 1880.

ANOTHER POLLUTANT

Next addition to a growing list of pollutants with which we are ruining the earth is mercury. This is the poison that, among other things, kills brain cells when it reaches them. The Federal Water Quality Administration estimates that as much as 10 per cent of all U. S. inland waterways may be either endangered or spoiled for commercial or sport fishing for decades. Mercury has been found in large amounts in fish in at least 20 states. Some lakes and rivers in which mercury has been found have been banned to commercial use. According to the publication Environmental Action, mercury contamination has caused brain damage in at least three children.

FARM PROGRAMS AT STAKE

Kiplinger's Business Letter says the federal farm program is undergoing vast changes as the Administration and Congress ready a new farm bill to take the place of the one now expiring. Subsidies will be cut, and Congress is being pressured to make sweeping changes, such as imposing limits on farmer payments. So, the future of farm profits throughout the next decade are at stake. What happens in Washington for the remainder of the year will affect farmers and businessmen dealing with farmers tremendously in the coming years.

STATE FAIR—The Kentucky State Fair will be held in Louisville August 20 through 29th, and more types of entertainment are planned this year, with something of interest for everyone.

DDT RESTRICTED—The use of DDT beginning Sept. 1 will be restricted to subterranean termites, bats, rats and mice under an amendment to the state pesticide law passed by the 1970 Kentucky Legislature. It also forbids selling the pesticide in quantities of more than a pound, and requires purchasers to sign statements that it will be used only for the purposes allowed.

RIVER LOST ITS WAY EONS AGO

BY HAROLD EKAS

Petroleum Engineers

A river with its start somewhere in the North Carolina hills once flowed through this section. But in glacier ages, the Paint Creek Uplift coupled with a glacier that stopped its southward flow somewhere near the present city of Cincinnati, created three new rivers—the Ohio, the Big Sandy and the Licking.

At one time in ages past, the river flowing out of the North Carolina hills flowed through East Kentucky to the vicinity of the present Cincinnati, and thence northward to the Great Lakes area.

Then, as the glaciers thawed, there came a major uplift that obstructed the river from North Carolina somewhere near the river's half-way mark. And a little distance further along its length, the river was blocked by the aforementioned glacier.

The thawing glacier and the Paint Creek Uplift combined to change the flow of the river, forming the Ohio on one side of the uplift; and on the other side of the uplift the northward flowing stream reversed its course, forming the Big Sandy.

Thus, the early river flowing out of North Carolina was blocked by a giant earth upheaval (the Paint Creek Uplift) and divided into two rivers flowing in opposite directions. Major displacement of the uplift at its maximum point is 360 feet, and the normal displacement is 250 feet.

Letter To The Editor Commends The Courier For Cold Check Story

Dear Mr. Kinner:
By chance, I saw your good paper of July 16, 1970, and was particularly interested in the account of the "Cold Check Artist".

How I wish I might have seen such article prior to April, 1970! We have in our possession one of the checks (ours is dated April 4) described in your paper - drawn to the order of CHARLES S. NELSON - signed by J. S. SWANTON - and stamped below the signature, SWANTON SHEET METAL WORK - in the amount of $89.25. The sad thing in our case is the fact that our trusting desk clerk forked over change in excess of $50.00 for this worthless piece of paper!

The "gentlemen" operated exactly in the same manner as described in your paper. . . . Registered, paid in advance, RECEIVED THEIR CHANGE, informed the desk clerk that they were in town to do some work at the local elementary school. . . . and were on their way! (Needless to say, the room was never used.)

I commend you on your fine newspaper and upon bringing matters of this type to the attention of the citizens of your area.

Sincerely yours,

SENATE COMMITTEE ADDS PAINT CK. DAM TO 1970 PUBLIC WORKS BILL

The Senate Appropriations Committee altered the House committee's public works bill Tuesday by adding two projects not contained in the House version—Paint Creek Reservoir in Johnson and Morgan counties, and an Ohio river dam at Ballard County.

The Senate committee voted $900,000 to start construction on the Paint Creek Reservoir and $1 million for construction of the Ohio river lock and dam. In all other respects the Senate committee's bill was the same as the House committee's. It included the following for Kentucky—

$6.4 million for Cave Run Reservoir on Licking, $400,000 for construction on Martin's Fork Reservoir on the Cumberland River above Harlan, $200,000 for planning Kehoe Reservoir on Little Sandy, $4.3 million for construction of Laurel River Reservoir in Laurel and Whitley Counties, $6.5 for construction of Carr Fork Reservoir on Kentucky River near Hazard, $1.6 million to complete construction of Fishtrap Reservoir on Big Sandy near Pikeville, $1.8 million to complete construction of Green River Reservoir, $314,000 for construction of Frankfort Floodwall, $50,000 for planning Falmouth Dam on Licking, $75,000 for planning Yatesville Dam on Big Blaine Creek in Lawrence County, $90,000 for planning and $300,000 for construction of the Taylorsville Reservoir on Salt River in Spencer County.

The Paint Creek project is for an earthen dam across Paint Creek near Paintsville, creating a reservoir extending across Johnson into Morgan County.

Senator John Sherman Cooper, who worked hard to get the Paint Creek project included in this year's bill, said he would ask Senate conferees to "insist that funds be left in an agreed House-Senate version."

Three Lexington doctors, their wives and four children were not on their 38-foot houseboat when it went over the dam at Lock No. 9 at Valley View on the Kentucky River Sunday.

It was the site where Dr. H. B. Murray's cabin cruiser went over the same dam May 21, 1967 and drowned six prominent Eastern Kentuckians—Dr. Murray, Walter Barker of Malone, Carl Murphy of Ezel, Ray Oliver of Campton, Emerson Hill of Relief, and William T. Adams of Pomeroyton, all members of the board of directors of Mountain Rural Telephone Co-op.

Lockmaster Chas. Ballman said the houseboat of the Lexington doctors passed through the lock Saturday on its way to Clay's Ferry, but because the engine was turned off for repairs, it drifted back to the dam and went over the dam after heavy rains had swelled the river.

All occupants, who had included three doctors, their wives and four children, had gotten off the craft before it went over. The houseboat was owned by D. F. Hanson, administrator of the Lexington Clinic.

HIGHWAY DEATH OF FARMERS MAN IS RULED MURDER

MOREHEAD, Ky. Aug. 8—State police reported yesterday that Henry Carlos Crick, 39, first believed to have been a traffic victim, actually was murdered.

The body of Click, of Farmers, was found July 14, seven miles from Morehead. He was lying off the highway, with one wheel of an abandoned truck resting on his body.

State Police Det. Marion Campbell said there were indications the vehicle had been driven over Click's body.

He said a coroner's jury attributed the death to murder and that an autopsy showed Click died from suffocation.

I was warned electric heat would cost me more.

"We've lived with it for 3 years and it's costing less than the heat we had before."

"Some people tried to tell us electric heat was expensive." Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pennington of Hazard, Kentucky, "wouldn't have much trouble convincing them it's cheaper by just showing them the records we have on heating for the last 3 years. And it's cleaner, so you don't have the cleaning bills you have with other heat. Our ceilings and walls are as clean as they were when the house was new. People who think it's expensive sure change their minds when they find out what it really costs." Compare the cost of electric heat for your home. MOBILE X-RAY UNIT PROVIDES
EXAMINATION, SCREENING FOR TB

The Mobile X-Ray Unit furnished by the State Department of Health made screening x-rays of 181 persons during its visit to the Morgan County Health Department Tuesday afternoon. And in the morning 54 persons attended the tuberculosis clinic conducted at the health department by Dr. B. P.
Komasa, director of the Ashland TB Hospital, nurses and social workers.

The morning clinic was for examination and diagnosis of tuberculosis patients, contacts, and persons referred by their physician.

In the afternoon the mobile unit provided free x-rays for the public. If any of the 181 who received x-rays have positive or suspicious TB diagnosis, they will be notified to report to their family physician or to a future clinic to be conducted by Dr. Komasa.

Clinics are conducted every two months at the local health department.
Assisting Dr. Komasa were Delia W. Kinner, local health nurse; Mrs. Robert May, health department clerk, Miss Naomi Finch, school nurse, and Miss Sandy May, registrar, Miss Frieda Adkins, N.Y.C. worker.

DR. KOMASA is seen here with Chester McKenzie of West Liberty, discussing his x-ray.

The Battle of Blue Licks was the last major engagement against the Indians on Kentucky soil. The site is Blue Licks Battlefield, now established as a state park and shrine, near Mt. Olivet. A pioneer museum is maintained at the park.

SCREENING X-RAYS were made of 181 persons at the mobile x-ray in front of health department in the afternoon. Some of the 181 who got x-rays are seen here awaiting their turn.

Dr. B. P. Komasa, director of the Ashland District Tuberculosis Hospital, left, interviews a patient, Johnny Watson, right, at the clinic in West Liberty. Standing is Delia W. Kinner, local health nurse. Watson was one of 54 at this week's clinic.

the mail marked "Boxholder" and "Occupant" asking for handouts for various charities, money-raising campaigns, etc. He finally decided to do something about a particular one so he wrote a check to the organization for $10,000 and signed it
"Occupant."

It's obvious that the poor printer in a nearby county who recently "struck off" some auction sale bills took the copy for the handbill over the telephone. A description of the property to be sold included:
"plenty of closet space, four stair furnace..." Forced air furnace, maybe?"

The West Liberty City Council plans to spend several thousand dollars for a second fire truck for the volunteer fire department. The need for a second fire engine was pointed up rather dramatically during the big fire of a few weeks ago which destroyed three business buildings on Main Street. The new truck, we are told, will probably be a combination pumper and hose and ladder truck and probably will cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $25,000 to $30,000. The truck will be paid for with city fire tax funds. The city fire tax fund currently contains something over $9,000.
